IOTA CHAPTER Best Chapter in ZBT

IOTA ADVISORS' UPDATE

Another school year is off to a strong start. Under the leadership of Sonny Davis, the chapter continues to excel on many fronts. With the addition of 31 new brothers the chapter now has 116 brothers, an IOTA record. Peter Johnston and his committee along with mentorship provided by Scott Adams did an excellent job in attracting the best and brightest to join our brotherhood. Hoping to have approximately 10 more students join our ranks in winter and spring.

The Brummer Cup Celebration was a wonderful event celebrating the chapter's accomplishment of being recognized at the BEST CHAPTER in all of ZBT for the second time in the last three years. Iota has now been the best or second best chapter in ZBT nine of the last 10 years or as we call it our Decade of Dominance. Laurence Bolotin, ZBT's Executive director joined us along with DU Officials Vice Chancellor Lillian Rodriguez, CFO Craig Woody, faculty advisor and brother Greg Grauberger and Greek Advisor Carson Lance. Walter Sutton, Iota 1967, shared words of inspiration with the crowd of well over 100. Godfather Dan Goodman joined us along with dozens of other alumni, parents of brothers and friends of the chapter.

This fall's programming has and will include speakers on mental health awareness, sexual assault prevention, alcohol use and abuse, as well as other topics. The chapter will be hosting an ADL program on Words to Action helping students deal with hate on campus. The chapter has once again begun raising money for the Children's Miracle Network. They are participating in the Gift of Life programming helping find donors and matches for people in need of organs and blood arrow and doing other community service projects. The chapter Family Weekend Reception was a huge success as we welcome the families of new as well as older brothers to the Iota family. The chapter house was repainted, a new furnace installed, and other improvements made. We continue to discuss with DU the possibilities for renovation or a new chapter house in the not too distant future.

The annual alumnus v. undergraduate touch football game was well attended. The chapter looks forward to hosting their brothers from ZBT University of Colorado chapter in November.

All in all things are going well at Iota. My thanks go out to my fellow advisors for their effort in assisting the chapter. A special thanks to Don Reisfeld for publishing our newsletter our award winning, An Iota's Worth. Kudos to Greg Grauberger, our faculty advisor, who helps so many brothers every year.

It is great to be a ZBT at DU!

Carson Lance, New IFC Director at DU, Visits Iota Chapter

Carson Lance joins the University of Denver after spending seven years of fraternity/sorority advising in the Midwest and East Coast. He has been advising fraternities and sororities since his graduate school days at Bowling Green State University, and has served as a professional staff member at Northeastern University and College of Charleston. Carson brings with him knowledge and skills in developing leadership curriculum, creating risk reduction practices and strategies, planning large-scale events, developing organizational conduct polices, and advancing social justice within fraternity/sorority communities. He joined Phi Gamma Delta (FIJI) at Ball State University and serves as a facilitator for FIJI's health and safety programs, as well as a committee member tackling hazing and reimagining the member experience.

Carson is excited to lead the DU fraternity/sorority community with the support of students, advisors, housing corporations, FSL graduate staff, house directors, and stakeholders.

Sam and Geoff Lasin (underclassmen) along with Alumn Jim Ehrlich '77 and new DU Pioneer hockey coach David Carle.

Our Iota brothers currently abroad at Oktoberfest in Germany.

In this role, Carson is prioritizing the following: 1) build a foundation, 2) do no harm, 3) simplify the chaos, 4) measure the impact, and 5) vision the future. Each of these priorities will be carried out via programming, collaboration, policy work, process development, resource management, and accountability. The fraternity/sorority community is also positioned differently at DU than in years prior. The community is officially housed in the Office of Fraternity & Sorority Life (overseen by Carson), which is its own standalone office. This means fraternity/sorority is no longer part of the Office of Student Engagement. This provides some great opportunities to be flexible, intentional, and strategic under this new structure. Lastly, Carson supervises two graduate students: second-year Noah Reetz (Pan-Hellenic advisor) and first-year Dakota Burton (IFC advisor). He provides support to both of the Pan-Hellenic and IFC communities but serves as the primary advisor for the Multicultural Greek and National Pan-Hellenic Councils.

If you have any questions, email Carson at: carson.lance@du.edu

Parent/Alumni Weekend at Iota

Thank you for all of the parents who came out to parent/alumni weekend for our reception! It was awesome for all of us to get to meet all of the parents. Another big thank-you to our President Madison 'Sonny' Davis, Parents/Alumni Relations Chairman Matt Kearney, Philanthropy Chairman Ethan Wallis-Lang, and Chapter Advisor Steve Ehrlich for speaking to the parents.

Brothers and parents mingle and eat a great dessert at the family reception.
Brothers Matt Kearney and John Berry joke around with a few of the parents at the Family Dessert Reception, homecoming weekend. Thanks to all who came!

How to Crash a Wedding, According to the World's Greatest Party Crasher

Wedding Crashers Had It All Wrong

BY SAM EICHNER · AUGUST 15, 2018

Around the time he snuck into one of President Obama's White House Correspondents' Dinners, Fred Karger came to a realization more than fifty years in the making: there was not a wedding nor a celebrity funeral, a benefit nor a gala, an awards ceremony nor an after-party, that he could not find his way into.

Since high school, Karger, now 68, had a knack for gaining access to the champagne-dappled rooms typically reserved for the rich, the famous, the gatekeepers of the haut monde. On double dates, he would play dress up and venture from the quietude of Glencoe, a suburb on the North Shore of Chicago, to the city, where he'd sneak his companions into whichever classy event happened to be unraveling at the Hilton Hotel. Home from college for Christmas vacation, he and a friend stole—borrowed—waiter uniforms to get into an annual fundraiser called the Crystal Ball, and made the Chicago Tribune's society page. It was his first big crash.

In 1972, Karger, then 22, took things up a notch and crashed the Oscars: he simply called the Academy and told them that media titan David Sarnoff's nephew and friend wanted to attend the ceremony. They received special badges, which they realized could get them backstage. With a bit of confidence and a lot of nerve, Karger ended up on stage at the end of the awards ceremony, shaking Charlie Chaplin's hand, the actress Ann Margaret by his side. After he snuck in the following year as well, the Oscars' head of security, who spied Karger at an after-party, sternly told him to never try it again—but also asked if he'd advise them on next year's security protocols.

Over the course of his notorious, decades-spanning career, Karger has crashed hundreds of events, from celebrity funerals (like Lady Astor's), to weddings, to DC parties for the political elite. In 2006, he crashed Vanity Fair's Academy Awards after-party—then one of the most exclusive events of the year—where he nearly dropped his fake Oscar on Catherine Keener's foot. Last year, he crashed the Met Gala, improvising his way past five checkpoints and editrix Anna Wintour herself, before schmoozing with Tom Brady and walking in on a crowd of celebrities illicitly smoking cigarettes in the men's bathroom; just this May, he trojan-horsed himself into Versace's Met Gala after-party at the Mark Hotel, by nonchalantly carrying the train of Blake Lively's ball gown. (continued)

THE ALUMNI AND PARENT NEWSLETTER OF THE IOTA CHAPTER OF ZETA BETA TAU OF THE UNIVERSITY OF DENVER

What accounts for Karger's preternatural crashing talent? A cocktail of unabashed determination, quick thinking, charm and a history of necessary deception: until somewhat recently, Karger led the classic double life of homosexuals of a certain generation and status.

"You had to be really clever when your mother asked who you were going out with," Karger remarked. "You had to be quick on your feet."

Certainly, his short-lived stint as an actor—he won a recurring role on a Welcome Back, Kotter spin-off that never aired—hasn't hurt his crashing chops, either. Nor has his long career scrounging up opposition research as a conservative political consultant for the Dolphin Group, who, amongst other things, helped sink Michael

KARGER AT THE MET GALA

Dukakis's 1988 presidential campaign. Suffice it to say, he's a man who knows how to identify weaknesses, and how to exploit them.

But it's in the latest phase of his public life that Karger has most resoundingly exhibited the audacity integral to his party crashing: in 2008, he gained notoriety for exposing the Mormon church's donations to California's Prop 8 campaign; in 2012, he became the first openly gay presidential candidate—running as a moderate Republican—and hustled his name onto the ballot in six states.

Nowadays, he runs his own LGBT rights organization, called Rights Equal Rights.

And he continues to crash, too, waiting for whatever seemingly impenetrable event pops up next. Since we're reaching the peak of wedding season, we asked Karger to give us some tips on sneaking into the most exclusive receptions.

Spoiler: Wedding Crashers had it all wrong.

Dress the part. Act the part. Be the part.

"The key thing is to look like you belong," Karger says. The older you are, the easier it is: people are much less suspicious of a well-dressed 50-something with graying hair than they are of an overzealous 22-year-old with a poorly-concealed flask of whiskey.

Whenever possible, follow the crowd.

Karger's most reliable move is simply acting confident and following the right crowd into the party. That's more or less how he got into the Met Gala. If someone stops you, you can always say you just stepped out for a cigarette or a phone call, and are re-entering the party. And if someone calls out for you as you walk by, don't turn around—at least until the third "excuse me." Respond the first time, and you'll look guilty.

Prepare a backstory that suits you.

"It was such amateur hour," Karger says, regarding the strategy of John Beckwith and Jeremy Grey in Wedding Crashers. Instead of referencing a particular family member—"Uncle Ned's kids"—you should vaguely say you're on the groom's side if someone on the bride's side talks to you, and vice versa. At big weddings—i.e., the ones worth crashing—it's highly unlikely anybody knows everybody.

"If you're creating an identity to fit in at an event," Karger continues, "you have to come up with something that suits you, but is also kind of removed, so you can't get pinned down." At the Met Gala, for example, he told people he worked for Apple—one of the event's sponsors. And when he snuck into Vanity Fair's Oscars after-party, in 2006, he told the event staff he was Richard Taylor, a man to whom he bore a slight resemblance, who was one of four winners for Best Visual Effects. With a fake Oscar in tow, this was the perfect backstory for Karger and the event: Taylor had name-recognition, yet was not readily familiar.

Blend in. Don't stand out.

Here's another detail Wedding Crashers got wrong. While making giant balloon animals, dancing with the flower girl and generally making a name for yourself at the wedding may be conducive to bedding vulnerable bridesmaids, standing out during a crash is antithetical to the entire enterprise. The idea is to blend in.

"When you're in there," Karger says, "don't get drunk, don't start dancing obnoxiously. You just want to fit in and be like every other guest."

Be mindful of the security and staff.

If you're caught or questioned, says Karger, don't become indignant. Be courteous. Be respectful. Understand that it's these people's jobs to question you. Karger has failed numerous times at numerous different events, only to eventually gain entry. That's in part because he never made a big stink upon getting caught, thereby giving himself another chance to find a way in.

Fred Karger, Iota Class of 1972

Letter from ZBT's International President

As your International President, I have had the pleasure of traveling North American in support of our historic fraternity. To date, I have traveled almost 80,000 miles and visited with the leadership and brothers of almost 40 chapters and colonies; including Iota. If asked to summarize my vision for Zeta Beta Tau, it would be a fraternity without borders and divisions.

Too often I hear undergraduates refer to fraternity staff and leadership as "Nationals". This is unfortunate because we are all brothers and we are all committed to having the best fraternity possible. Similarly, we are all guilty of thinking of our chapter as being "the fraternity".

Our fraternity is our 140,000 brothers. Our fraternity is our 87 current chapters and colonies. Our fraternity is all of our former chapters and colonies. Our fraternity is Phi Alpha, Kappa Nu, Phi Sigma Delta, Phi Epsilon Pi and Zeta Beta Tau.

My vision for the fraternity comes from your own Iota Chapter and our Beta Alpha Theta Chapter at the University of Colorado. Your annual football game that had gone dormant was the type of brotherly bonding I so wanted to see. When I took office in 2016, I called on the brotherhood to come together in events such as these. Brothers have played football and tailgated together. Chapter with houses have invited unhouse chapters to conduct their initiations.

Our biggest opportunity to come together across the generations is our annual convention. In 2019, our convention will honor the 100th anniversary of the Iota Chapter and will be celebrated in the Mile High City. I hope that you will come home to Denver and join us as we honor the best in our fraternity.

Here's to our fraternity: may it live forever.

Norman Waas, ZBT International President

Bruce Saiber Memorial Iota Chapter Education Fund

Zeta Beta Tau Foundation is a nonprofit corporation exclusively committed to educational and charitable purposes that assist the brothers of Zeta Beta Tau Fraternity. The Foundation assists the brothers of Zeta Beta Tau Fraternity by funding scholarships and academic and leadership programs to maximize their personal development and prepare them to be leaders of society. The scholarships and academic and leadership programs funded by the Foundation enhance the overall value of membership in Zeta Beta Tau Fraternity by complementing the collegiate educational experience.

We are pleased to announce the recent launch of the Zeta Beta Tau Foundation's website! The site can be found at <https://www.zbtfoundation.org>. Our goal with this website is to provide our brothers and friends of ZBT an easier way to learn about the Zeta Beta Tau Foundation. The website is mobile friendly and among the features are videos, press releases and increased information about the Foundation's impact, the programs we support and the many opportunities available for supporting the mission of the Zeta Beta Tau Foundation.

Donation's to support Iota Chapter and our undergraduate brothers at the University of Denver can be made to the Zeta Beta Tau Foundation's Bruce Saiber Memorial Iota Chapter Education Fund. Bruce, an Iota, was a long time advisor for the chapter. He also served as a staff member for Phi Sigma Delta prior to the merger with Zeta Beta Tau. Grants from the Bruce Saiber Memorial Iota Chapter Education Fund help send current and future Iota Chapter undergraduate leaders too much needed educational leadership training programs. Annual IOTA football game: Alumni vs. Undergraduates ALUMNI WIN AGAIN on the Gridiron

Lead by QB Nic Miscioscia the alumni squad once again dominated the undergraduates who provided a spirited effort. Our files indicate the series record to be 28-3 in favor of the alumni.

We also had a great crowd with IOTA's and Little Sisters Jim Errant, Peter Glick, Marcia Balonick, Linden Green, Jodye Glick, other friends and families plus a gaggle of their kids and grandkids cheering the alumni onto victory. The group then enjoyed lunch together afterwards.

At the recommendation of Brother Steve Ehrlich, I was the guest speaker at the Iota Chapter meeting. I was very grateful my speech, Finding Your Specific Edge attracted a standing room only crowd of about 80 brothers, even though I was competing with Monday Night Football. It is no wonder that the Iota Chapter has won the Brummer Cup award twice in the past three years.

Founder of Tostitos and ZBT, Mike Wein speaking at chapter about finding your specific edge, or what makes you a unique and desirable component in the real world, a very important topic in today's climate.

For the KIDS – Give to Children's Miracle Network

My name is Ethan Wallis-Lang, and I am the current philanthropy chair with the Iota Chapter of Zeta Beta Tau at the University of Denver. This year, like many others before, we are asking you to help raise money for the Children's Miracle Network. This group is helping children all over the country and world receive the proper medical attention and care that they need. It is our mission, a part of the Get On The Ball philanthropy campaign, to help raise as much money #ForTheKids as possible.

Last year, we were able to raise more than $14,000 for Children's Miracle Network, and we could not have done that without the support from our loyal friends, family, and most importantly, alumni! We are hoping that you can help us meet our goal of $17,500 by donating whatever you can, as well as spreading the word. We just topped $8,000.

After raising over $14,000 last year with Get On The Ball, we can't wait to beat that mark this year! Chancellor Chopp and Vice-Chancellor Haefner after signing Get On The Ball with Ethan Wallis-Lang.

It's easy to donate, please go to: <https://give.everydayhero.com/us/zbt-iota-children-s-miracle-network> then scroll down to the TOP 5 Teams in the lower right hand corner of the screen. There - click on ZBT-IOTA - Then click on GIVE NOW in the upper right hand area of the screen then the WHO WOULD YOU LIKE TO DONATE TO box will appear scroll down to ALUMNI click on DONATE and join us in helping the kids.

If you wish to donate by check please address it to: Zeta Beta Tau IOTA and send to Ethan Wallis-Lang at 1959 S. Columbine, Denver, CO 80210. The chapter will make sure these funds get donated to CMN along with the thousands of dollars we collect from students on campus when they Get On The Ball by signing our large ball.

When donating, please include your full name so we can send you a personalized thank you note. We are hoping to have our best year of Get On The Ball yet and want YOU to be apart of it. If you have any questions or concerns please contact me at via email: ethan.wallis-lang@du.edu or call 408-921-2603.

Gift of Life

Chapters are encouraged to hold marrow donor recruitment drives on their college campuses and in surrounding communities with a particular focus on events such as Movember (national men's health month in November) and Match Madness (to coincide with March Madness basketball tournaments).

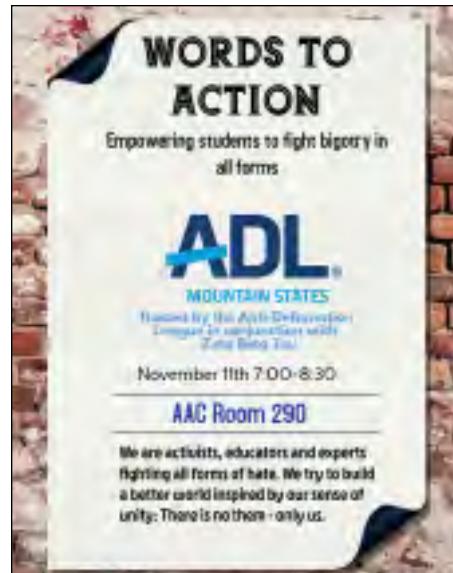

Gift of Life provides chapters with:

- Education and training in how to organize and run donor drives
- Printed drive handbook customized for ZBT
- Supply box containing buccal swab kits, educational materials and handouts
- Promotional and marketing items to help advertise drives

Young donors are preferred by transplant centers for their patients because they are healthier and naturally produce greater numbers of the needed stem cells. The potential for ZBT to recruit in this donor demographic is huge, and donors don't have to be ZBT brothers to join the registry at a fraternity-sponsored event.

Are you a ZBT fraternity brother? To coordinate a donor drive with Gift of Life for your chapter, please contact Gift of Life Community Engagement Coordinator Russell Lowe, ZBT Epsilon Nu, SUNY Oneonta 2016, rlowe@giftoflife.org

Words to Action is a program presented by the Anti-Defamation League. The aim of the program is to empower and equip college students with constructive and effective responses to fight hate. It was great bringing the FSL community together with participation from 7 different organizations! On college campuses, escalating BDS campaigns ignite highly politicized debates that isolate supporters of Israel, generate hostile environments and single out Jewish students. High profile academics, charismatic speakers, and influential student leaders have presented the Israeli-Palestinian situation in a one-sided manner, blaming the conflict solely on Israel and largely ignoring Palestinian terrorism and violence. Sometimes, this blatantly anti-Israel rhetoric crosses the line into anti-Semitism. Visit: <https://www.adl.org/education-and-resources/resources-for-educators-parents-families/words-to-action>

President

Hey all! My name is Madison (Sonny) Davis and I am the President of Zeta Beta Tau IOTA chapter at the University of Denver. I am honored to serve as the leader of this organization and am committed to continuing to excel our brotherhood.

This past academic year we were awarded seven out of the eight awards for our campus. These included two individual awards for the best faculty advisor (Greg Grauberger) and best Chapter President (Adam Segall).

During the summer we were invited to attend the Zeta Beta Tau National Convention in Los Angeles. Here we were awarded with Most Outstanding Recruitment, Most Outstanding Parent/Alumni Relations, Most Outstanding Publications, Most Outstanding Advisor (Stephen Erhlich), Most Outstanding Programming and the Brummer Cup for the Most Outstanding Zeta Beta Tau Chapter in the nation.

It was truly a team effort and I am humbled to have been a part of it. This year we aim to continue our decade of dominance by providing over 1,000 hours of community service, raising more than $17,500 for Children's Miracle Network and leading the way in new programs such as Sexual Assault Prevention and Mental Health Awareness.

I look forward to expanding our network and remaining leaders both on our campus and on a national scale.

Thanks to all who continually put forth the effort to make ZBT - IOTA an outstanding organization. It is great to be a Zeeb!

Programming

My name is Drew Scott and I am the External VP for the ZBT Iota chapter. As the EVP, my job is to oversee half of our chairmen and make sure they are doing their jobs and support them when they need it. I chose to run for e-board this year in the hopes that I can give the same experience to the younger classes that I was given. ZBT has given me some of the best friendships, memories, and opportunities that I would not have had if I had not joined and we as an e-board want to pass that along.

Heritage

I first just want to start off by saying how proud I am to hold this chair. As a Jewish man my entire life I have taken tremendous pride in my Jewish Heritage! To continue supporting my heritage in this regard is something I value. I love this role as so far we have, as a chapter, celebrated the Jewish holidays with DU Hillel (Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur). Coming in the winter we are currently planning with them as well alongside Chabad's Greatest Rabbi Serebrynski to host a community Shabbat dinner at our home. We are excited to host this event as it can continue to create community within our beautiful Denver!

Treasurer

My name is Connor Reingruber, and I am the treasurer for our Iota chapter here at the University of Denver. I am a sophomore from Bethesda, Maryland and currently majoring in Finance in the Daniels College of Business. When I'm not fulfilling obligations for the fraternity or my education, I enjoy spending time with my brothers and fly-fishing. As the treasurer for our fraternity, I plan out all of the year's events from a financial standpoint. We pride ourselves on all of the activities that our brothers partake in throughout the year, but our programming obviously requires the necessary funds, which is why I am responsible for the collection of chapter dues and the subsequent allocation of funds for each of our committees. Some of the most beloved and financially demanding events of the year for us are our two-night stay at Breckenridge for spring formal and our annual ZBTahiti concert for the Children's Miracle Network, which usually features a popular artist like Waka Flocka Flame and WhatSoNot. If you ever have any questions regarding your son's fraternity payments, you can always reach me on my cell: 301-300-0457 or via email: connorrein@gmail.com. I thank you all in advance for your help in the successful functioning of our fraternity.

Academics

As the academic chair of the Zeta Beta Tau fraternity, one of our primary goals is to help create and sustain an academic environment that allows our brothers to develop and thrive as academic leaders on campus. As such, over the start of the quarter and into the school year, we have been instituting brother led tutoring programs, allowing for brothers to help others succeed academically. Additionally, all members are given contact information of brothers within the same area of study, allowing members of all grades to help in academic support and recommendations.

In instituting these policies, we are striving to have all members hold GPAs above a 2.75 and aim to become the fraternity with the highest GPA on campus while celebrating our successful members with a free celebration dinner once a quarter.

Congratulations to the following brothers on their admirable accomplishment of making the Dean's List this past quarter: Grant Brady, Ethan Borsook, Hudson Cramer, David Kaplan, Stuart McNutt, Joseph Noonan, Brian Richardson, Jackson Spear, Jack Swain. Keep up the hard work!

Philanthropy

I'm Ethan Wallis-Lang and I'm the Philanthropy chair for this year. As Philanthropy chair, my job is to coordinate philanthropy events with the school and outside organizations to ensure our Fraternity can raise as much money as possible for donations. So far, we've been working really hard with Get on the Ball, a fundraising event to raise money for the Children's Miracle Network Hospitals. We've rolled the ball around campus and collected signatures from over 200 people and in just 6 weeks raised over $8500. Our goal for the year is $17,500 and we so far are right on track!

Sexual Assault Prevention

The Sexual Assault Prevention Task Force at our Zeta Beta Tau's Iota Chapter had a productive and fulfilling fall quarter, opening the floor for discussions on a variety of often overlooked, important issues on college campuses. Matthew Meyer, ZBT's liaison to the University of Denver's Center for Advocacy, Prevention, and Empowerment (CAPE), along with Iota's executive board and the entirety of its new freshman class participated in a presentation/discussion panel Meyer created addressing what they as upstanding gentlemen in the Greek life community can change about themselves to create a safer environment on campus. Talking points in the meeting included dissecting toxic masculinity, and how prevailing stereotypes and perceptions about the male gender influence our decision making in social situations, as well as placing an emphasis on being an active bystander and not socially negligent at any functions, not just ZBT activities. Outside of Meyer's presentation, the SAPTF as a committee has made sure while meeting to instill its members with a healthy sense of social responsibility, in terms of safety at social events and holding aggressive vocabulary accountable. Meyer and committee chair Maros Adamec have recruited members from each of the fraternity's grades who are committed to holding ZBT at the University of Denver to a higher standard regarding sexual assault awareness/prevention, as the only Greek organization on campus currently with such a committee in place.

Athletics

Athletics for ZBT Iota are going really well this fall quarter. We have won the IM flag football league, going undefeated, and are currently in the playoffs for soccer. As usual, we have been active and involved with IM sports and have teams for all but one of the sports offered this quarter. We won a dodge ball tournament earlier in the year, which was a blast. ZBT continues to be the most active and successful fraternity on campus in terms of athletics and IM wins. Hopefully we will have a couple more championships by the end of the quarter! Looking forward to our upcoming touch football game with our brothers from the University of Colorado.

Community Service

Hello, my name is Jack Swain, and I am serving as Community Service Chairman for our chapter. As DU students and brothers of ZBT, we recognize that we have a great opportunity to help those in our community who are less fortunate. We've tried to reflect that this quarter, with brothers volunteering for a range of organizations and events, from the Global Livingston Institute's annual fundraiser to the Denver Botanical Gardens' pumpkin patch event. In addition, there are big things still to come; one of our largest events this quarter is our Gift of Life drive, where we aim to swab as many people as possible to enter them into a donor registry that could save the lives of blood cancer patients. One of the standards of our brotherhood is service, and we hope that all brothers share in the opinion that we must give back to our community! Stay tuned for information in our participation with Wish for Wheels come this spring!

Provost

Hello, my name is Trevor Waltz I am a senior in the Iota chapter of Zeta Beta Tau at the University of Denver. I am currently serving as our chapters provost; this position oversees education for the entire chapter. This quarter I have overseen two main things; educating our new brothers on the history, ideals, and goals of our chapter along with finding speakers to come into our all chapter meetings. This quarter we have had a mixture of interesting speakers, ranging from the new Greek advisor on campus Carson Lance, to Mike Wein an iron man champion who spoke about competitive edge, to member of ZBT's staff Leah Powell to speak to our chapter about alcohol safety. All of these speakers provided our chapter with knowledge that can't be found in the classroom and works especially well when shared between brothers.

Brotherhood Development

Hello, my name is James Lykins, and I am the current chair Brotherhood Development at Iota. The BDD program has taken off over the last three years and I am very excited to have been given the opportunity to continue the great success we have been had. Over the last two quarters I have been doing activities and events to keep brothers involved and active in the chapter. Our first big event was an all brother meal for preferential dinner at Sushi Train. Since preferential dinner we have had three events with brothers going Dave and Busters, a Haunted House, and The Deli. All of which were tons of fun. The weather is turning colder and for the brothers of Iota there is a lot more fun to be had! We are also excited about our big brother program and the way it assists our new brothers assimilate into the chapter..

Alumni/Parental Relations

My name is Matt Kearney and I am the parent and alumni relations chair. It is my job to make sure that the parents of current ZBT brothers, as well as alumni who have already graduated are informed of all of our big events, and are always kept up to date with what is going on with our chapter. Another one of my responsibilities is to organize events with brothers and both parents and alumni throughout the year. Many of you parents made it out for homecoming weekend which was a blast, and I enjoyed meeting many of you at our homecoming dessert reception after the hockey game. We have also already had two successful alumni events this quarter with the alumni vs. student football game, and the alumni poker night at the house. I can't wait to meet more of you as this year goes on, and I'll be doing my best to keep everyone up to date on what we are doing as a chapter!.

Recruitment

Fall recruitment this quarter was a great success. After planning over the summer and a busy recruitment weekend, we were able to bring in and initiate 31 new freshmen who have been excelling within Iota Chapter. As a chapter of ZBT, we prioritize values-based recruitment. This means we look exclusively for young men who resonate with our personal goals, values, and character. Throughout the process, we were able to find a group of remarkable young men. Our newly initiated members come from a variety of backgrounds and possess diverse passions. The new class has incredible skiers, 4.0 students, members of community service organizations, and natural leaders just to name a few attributes. The diversity of Iota Chapter is a critical source of strength for our organization.

As recruitment chair, my main focus has been on creating events, which attract brothers and PNMs alike. Creating an environment where recruits meet as many brothers as possible is the most effective way to see who will make a great addition to our chapter. With a chapter of over 120 brothers it is nearly impossible to get everyone in the same place at the same time. By delegating tasks to other brothers and using different tools which allow for mass communication, I found that rallying the entire chapter for recruitment was much more effective than my personal efforts. Finding brothers who are consistently reliable is the most important task as recruitment chair.

Looking into the future, we plan on bringing in 10 members or more by the end of the academic year. With winter and spring recruitment we will continue to look for young men who can better themselves and our fraternity throughout their collegiate years.

Please send recruitment recommendations to:
peter.johnston@du.edu.

Campus Coordinator

This has been a very cool role for me as I can continue to help my brothers stay involved on campus in many ways that can impact everyone! My duties as a coordinator are to constantly update the chapter of the many events happening around campus, and to help those get involved in any organization that wants to be apart of. I, myself take pride in this, as I am currently the University's Basketball Team Manager and a 5th grade Hebrew school-teacher at Temple Sinai. Basketball has been one of my biggest passions ever since I was a little kid, so what better way to get involved, then do be apart of our school's team? I love my heritage, what better way to help raise our youth in the city of Denver? If a brother wants to be apart of DU admissions, or a tutor at LEP, or involved in sports, there's always opportunities, and I want to help the Men of ZBT build our resumes and chase their dreams with the passions that we each share in our lives!

Risk Management

My name is Bennett Elsman, I am sophomore finance major from the north suburbs of Chicago. Coming into my second year of being the Risk Management Chair, I feel Risk Management is extremely important and truly enjoy educating our new brothers on the topic. This year, we have held three Risk management meetings, two with the whole chapter and one with just our new freshmen class. The topics discussed in those meetings included our Sober Monitor system, keys for staying safe on the weekends, and general risk management policies of ZBT. Here at Iota, Risk Management is just me, it is every single brother putting forth effort to make everyone in ZBT and our guests stay safe, that's our bottom line.

Mike Newman '60

I am an insurance broker in Los Angeles specializing in entertainment insurance including television, movies and live productions. I am married to my wife Sherry since 1960 and have two children who are both married and live in Southern California with their children.

We have been very fortunate in our lives health wise and business-wise which has allowed us to travel all over the world. I am still working because it is like a hobby to me but our business was sold to an International brokerage company five years ago.

Last year we attended a reunion in Arizona with some of the brothers that were in school with me at DU. Had a great time at that reunion.

Still working at Garden City Hotel as Director of Catering. Sold my business a while back. Both of my kids and four grandchildren all living in Seattle and doing well. Not moving so fast as we love living in New York City. Speak to Goldstein but that's about it.

Working at Jasculca/Terman Strategic Communications, although taking more time off during summer months. Still trying to improve my golf game... not easy.

Married to Wendy for 25 years, together over 30 years. Ada, 26-year old daughter, is occupational therapist going for her doctorate. I'm still paying tuition. Nieve, our 24-year old daughter is an alumnus of Teach for America program now working at City Year, both programs under Americorps. Ozzie, our dog, is getting old like me. He is my closest friend. Greets me every day with a friendly bark, no mood swings, and the only one that will play ball with me.

My wife Carey graduated DU in 1974. Since 1992 I have operated my own entertainment-licensing agency, The Licensing Group Ltd, in Los Angeles. Some of the properties I have represented include all the RAMBO films, T2, Baywatch, Mortal Kombat, and recently, Ultraman. I produced the movie Mortal Kombat (first film), and have the property Matt Helm (27 book series) in development with DreamWorks and Paramount. Recently published my fourth book on licensing "Business of Licensing," in 2016, I was inducted into the international licensing association Hall of Fame. Recently met with DU professors about setting up a course on licensing.

My daughter Jane (DU Grad '06) and her husband (DU '04) had their first child in May, Wellington Maxwell Boone.

Yes, I'm getting old Damn it! Still living "La vida loca" down in Miami. Now that I am a retired "shmatah-tologist": I exercise regularly, travel, ski, fish and spend a lot of time as a high priced volunteer at the Greater Miami Jewish Federation. Chairing and serving on too many committees. All GOOD stuff!

Married 36 years to Leigh (also a DU grad) we have two adult daughters living in Boston. Lillian, our oldest, is a certified nurse-midwife and our youngest, Sarah, is the Associate Director of People Operations (we know it as HR) at Purple Carrot. A nationwide vegan food delivery kit company. Oh, she just got engaged and we look forward to a wedding at the end of 2019. Woooo Wooo!

I continue to participate in an annual ZBT Boyz weeklong ski trip each winter with brothers from 1974 to 1978/79. Great fun and comradely... syrup for the soul. This group of 10 brothers plans to ski into our 80's.

I am currently in my 2L year at St. John's School of Law. No family to speak of quite yet, hopefully next year. I made the Moot Court Honor Society at St. John's. This is considered a pretty high honor at the law school (second only to Law Review). Participation involves the drafting of appellate briefs as well as participation in oral argument competitions across the country. Sadly, I don't think St. John's will be competing at either DU or CU this year.
